

WE ALL AGREE.

It is pleasant to see the press of Nevada agree upon one important measure. Republican and Democratic journals alike, are striking good blows for silver and making a well-organized fight for the favorite product of Nevada.

We say well organized, but really there was no organization; it was a spontaneous uprising of the press, on a subject upon which each editor was in full accord with his neighbor. They all started in together, and so far we have seen no journal is foolish enough to claim that it was the particular paper which opened the ball.

This is the kind of work which tells best in the long run. In this fight political lines have been obliterated, and now we do not hear one party claiming to be doing more for silver than the other.

This is another good idea, for it is the division of parties which give the Gold Bugs the balance of power in the country.

We believe that things have reached that point when there is not a Democrat in Nevada who would not rather see free coinage and silver at a premium than to see a Democratic President, nor a Republican who would not today swap Harrison for any Democrat who would give us the same results.

If the balance of the West will be as united as Nevada, we will be able in 1892 to dictate terms to both National Conventions.

Watered Milk.

The milkman who waters his goods generally does so under the impression that the water poured in incorporates itself with the milk and cannot be detected except upon chemical analysis. This shows gross ignorance. The milk will hold only its fluid; all foreign fluid will be precipitated if the mixture is allowed to stand for a couple of days. Any housewife may spot a dishonest milkman with very little trouble. Let her take a long slender bottle, and cleanse it thoroughly and let it dry out. If, then it is filled with milk and allowed to stand in a cool—not cold—place for forty eight hours, all the foreign fluid will be precipitated—that is, it will settle to the bottom of the bottle. The soured milk will then fill the middle of the bottle and the fatty substance will be floating on top. Sometimes the top will be a layer of cream, then will come a layer of albumen, another artificial device to make the cream look rich; then will come the soured milk and at the bottom will be the foreign water. The whole scheme of deception can be read by a glance at the bottle after one has had a single lesson in the rudiments of milk inspection. This sort of work is not scientifically satisfactory, but it will always develop the fundamental fact—whether or not the milk is watered. —Scientific American.

The rotary snow plow has been doing fine work on the Central Pacific line in the high mountains of the Sierra Nevada, keeping the track free of snow with little difficulty. It was kept running night and day during the storm. There's an example of the application of a very simple idea in mechanics, in such a way as to effect a saving of millions of dollars to railroad companies and greatly benefit the public by preventing snow blockades and detention of passengers and mails. The invention should yield a fortune to its originator. It was thought and not "luck" that laid the foundation for his success. The field of invention is almost limitless and it affords any ingenious person a chance to get rich. As a rule, the most valuable inventions are very simple in principle.

It is reported from Rio Janeiro that the crown jewels of Brazil have been stolen in the confusion following the revolution. It is really too bad that the revolutionists didn't give the royal family time enough to pack up before they made them move.
